

Changing The Way We Care (CTWWC) is implemented by Catholic Relief Services and Maestral International, along with other global, national and local partners working together to change the way we care for children around the world. Our principal global partners are the Better Care Network and Faith to Action. CTWWC is funded in part by a Global Development Alliance of USAID, the MacArthur Foundation and the GHR Foundation.

Introduction

This handbook was made for children to read and write in. We hope you like it!

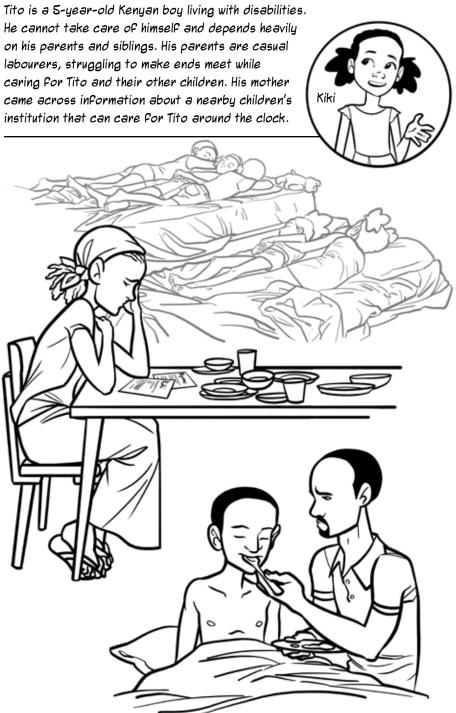

The story of Tito and his family will help you learn about why families are important and the best place for children to grow up. Children like Tito, who have special and different abilities, also need families just like you!

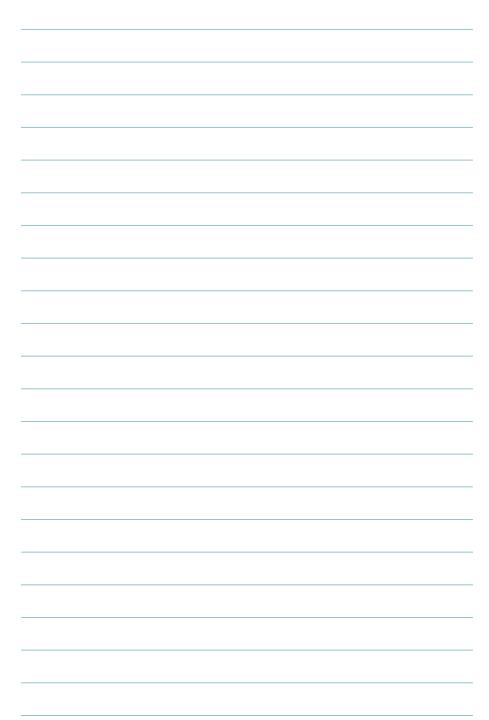

Sometimes, families like Tito's need help to take care of their children. That's okay. Families have the right to this help and they should ask for help whenever they need it. It's okay to need help!

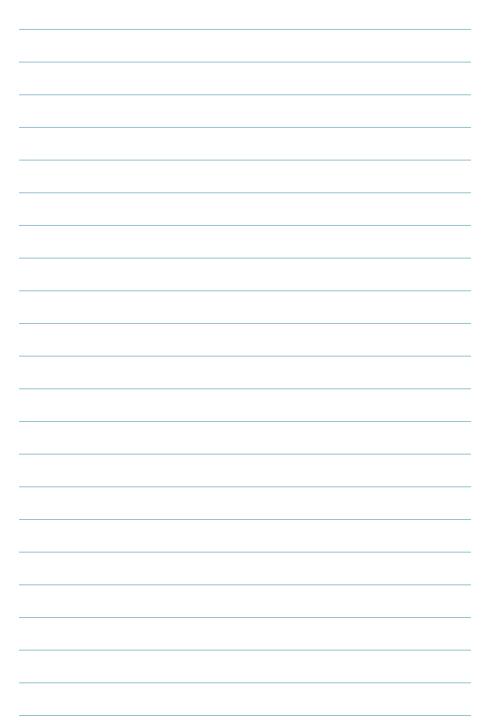

Children also need help sometimes. That's okay! We all need help sometimes. Children have the right to this help. Grown-ups, like parents or the other adults children live with, neighbors, teachers and others, should ask children their opinions about the help they need. Children need to be able to give their opinions about where they feel safe living and with whom.

This book is fun! You can read it together with your friends or brothers and sisters, your parents or other grownups in your house. You'll learn about why families are important and why they are the best place for children to grow up. You can write your feelings about the story on the pages. Sometimes it helps to write feelings and opinions down. Then you can share your feelings and opinions with your parent or another grownup in your house or neighborhood and other adults so they can hear you!

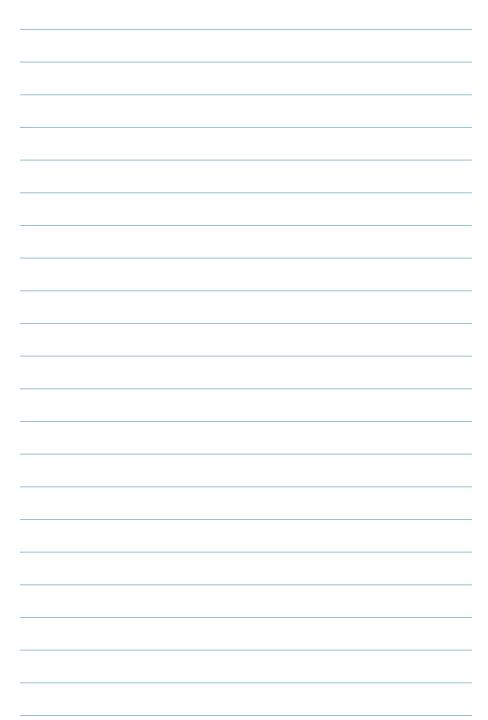

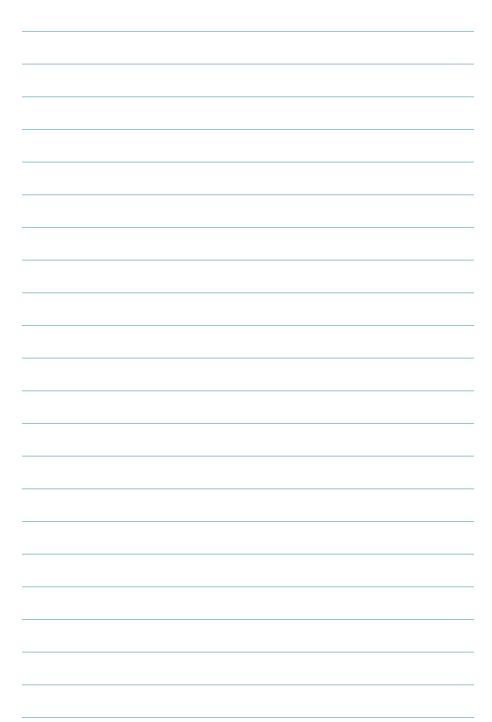

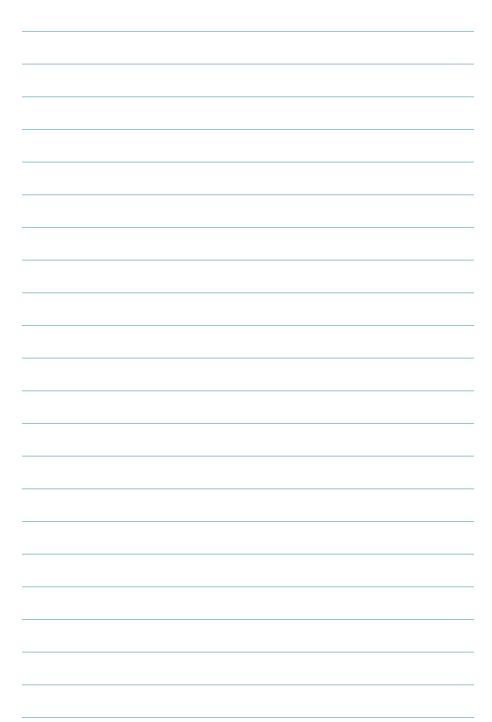

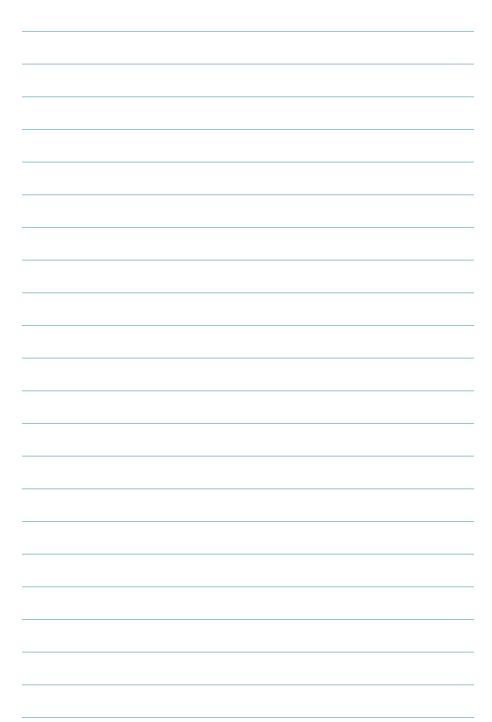

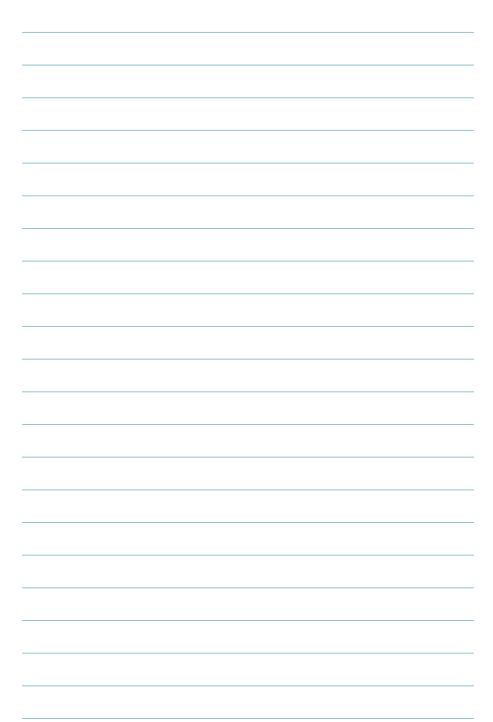

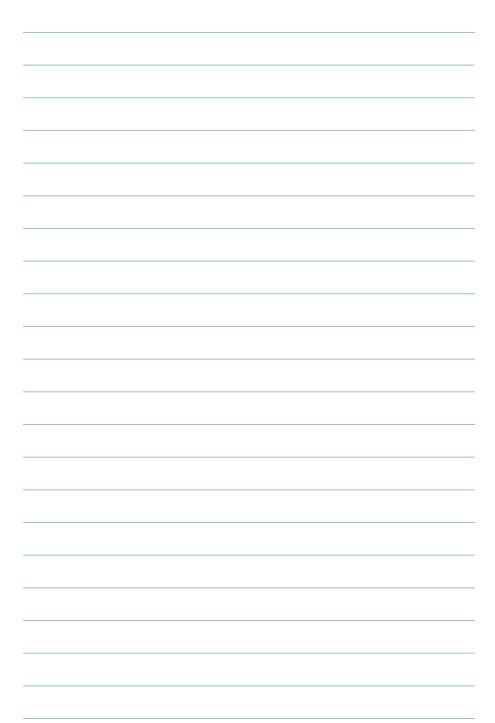

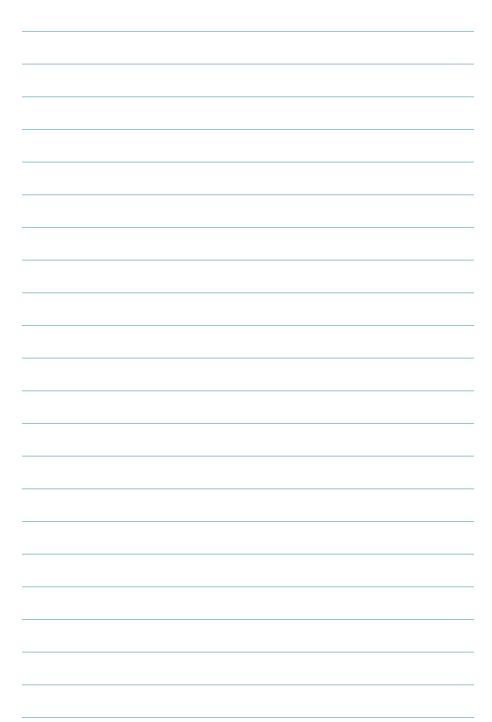

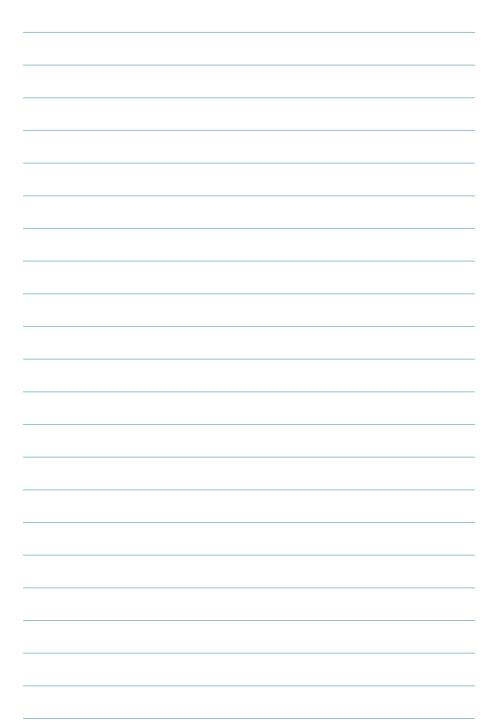

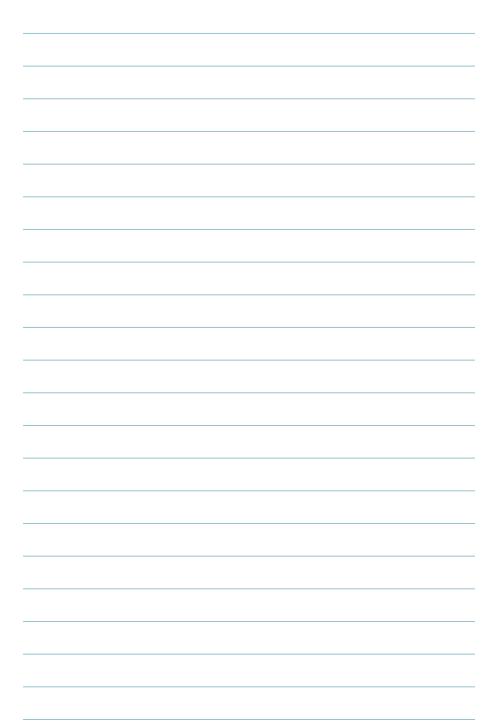

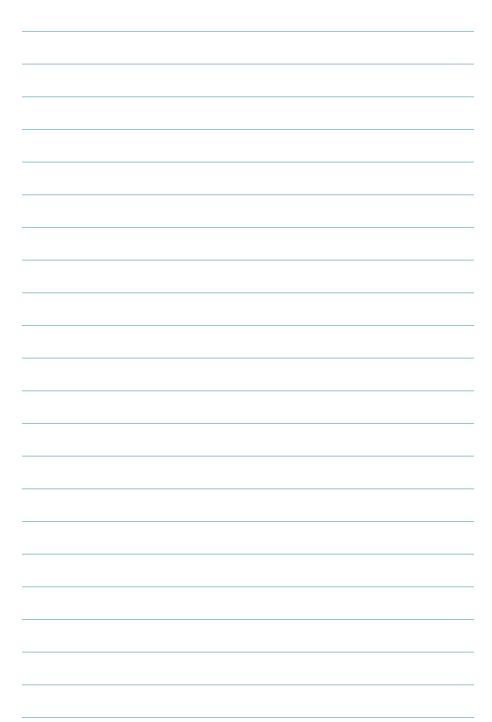

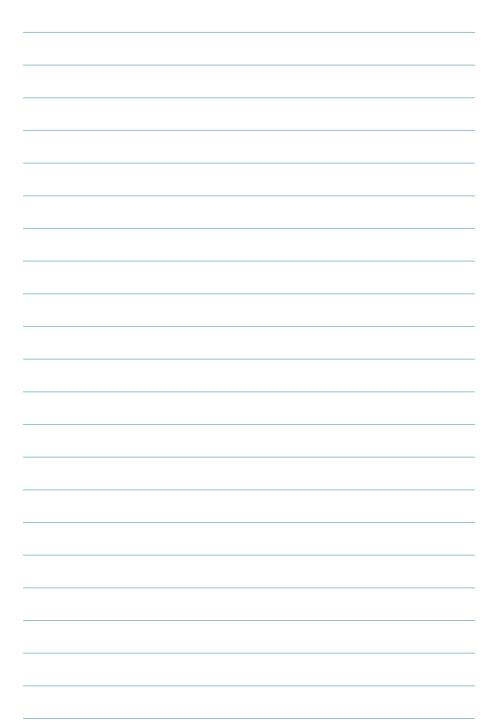

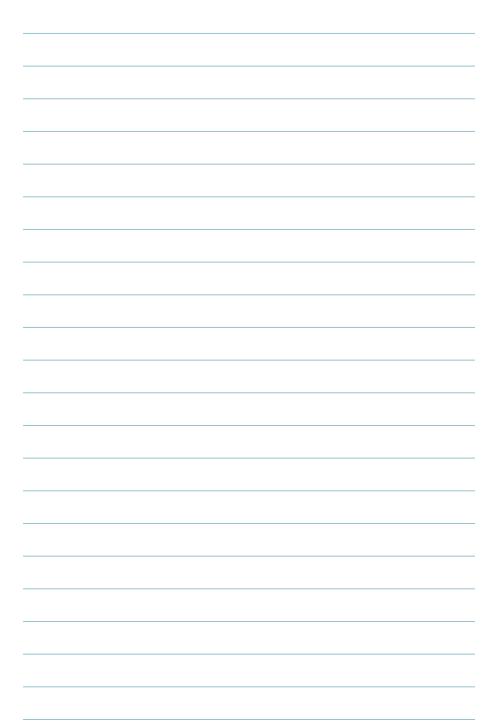

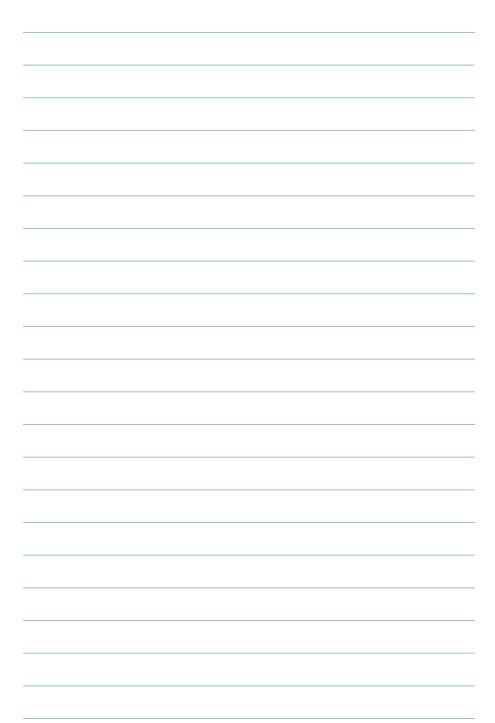

Tito's parents are delighted and offer to support the social worker to encourage other Families to keep and care for their children at home where they are safe and receive their parents' love and care.
