	05 Oct 1993	CRC/C/ATG/CO/2-4 30 June 2017 http://tbinternet.ohchr.org/_layouts/treatybodyexternal/Download.aspx?symbolno=CRC%2fC%2fATG%2fCO%2f2-4&Lang=en III. Main areas of concern and recommendations A. General measures of implementation (arts. 4, 42 and 44 (6)) Legislation 4. The Committee welcomes the efforts made to carry out a comprehensive review of existing laws to ensure compliance and harmonization with the provisions of the Convention and notes as positive the adoption of the Status of Children Act (2015), the Child Justice Act (2015) and the Children (Care and Adoption) Act (2015). It is concerned, however, that some legislation remains to be harmonized with the Convention. It is also concerned that progress in adopting the family bill has been slow. 5. With a view to expediting the process of ensuring that its legislation complies fully with the principles and provisions of the Convention, the Committee recommends that the State party: (a) Introduce a child rights impact assessment procedure for all current and proposed legislation; (b) Make the adoption of the family bill a matter of priority. C. General principles (arts. 2, 3, 6 and 12) Non-discrimination 20. The Committee welcomes the adoption of the revised Status of Children Act (2015) as a means of eliminating stigma against children born out of wedlock. However, it remains concerned that the grounds for constitutional protection from discrimination are not in full compliance with

		article 2 of the Convention and that no additional legislation exists that explicitly prohibits all forms of discrimination. It is also concerned that some groups of children, in particular children with disabilities, children living in poverty, children of migrant parents and informally adopted children, suffer from discriminatory attitudes and disparities in accessing basic services. 21. The Committee recommends that the State party: <ul style="list-style-type: none">(a) Strengthen its efforts to eradicate all discriminatory policies and practices with a view to ensuring that children enjoy all the rights set out in article 2 of the Convention;(b) Continue and strengthen its anti-discrimination awareness-raising and public education campaigns in relation to children of migrant parents, children with disabilities and informally adopted children, and those living in socially and economically disadvantaged families;(c) Enact comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation with effective enforcement mechanisms that prohibit discrimination on all grounds. Respect for the views of the child 24. The Committee notes as positive the progress being made to establish mechanisms allowing students to voice their views at school through student councils and the efforts being made to ensure respect for the views of the child, including the establishment of a youth parliament. However, it is concerned that there is limited recognition in the legislation of the right of the child to be heard and that there are no general mechanisms promoting the right to be heard. It is also concerned that children in vulnerable or marginalized situations, such as children in administrative care and children with disabilities, are often not consulted in matters concerning them. 25. With reference to its general comment No. 12 (2009) on the right of the child to be heard, the Committee recommends that the State party: <ul style="list-style-type: none">(a) Strengthen its efforts to ensure that children’s views are given due consideration in the family, in schools, in the courts and in all relevant administrative and other processes concerning them through, inter alia, the adoption of appropriate legislation,

		the training of professionals, the establishment of specific activities at schools and the conduct of awareness-raising activities among the general public; (b) Work in collaboration with stakeholders to disseminate the text of the Convention, including child-friendly versions, throughout the State party; (c) Strengthen the creation of spaces through which children can effectively influence public policy and, to that end, provide the youth parliament with a meaningful mandate along with the necessary human, technical and financial resources. E. Violence against children (arts. 19, 24 (3), 28 (2), 34, 37 (a) and 39) Corporal punishment 28. The Committee remains deeply concerned that corporal punishment is widespread and administered systematically in schools, in the home, in alternative care and day care settings and other institutions and that it continues to be widely accepted in society as a means of disciplining children. It is particularly concerned that certain provisions of the Education Act (2008) allow the principal, deputy principal or a teacher of a school to administer corporal punishment. 29. The Committee urges the State party to: (a) End all forms of corporal punishment in all settings, in particular in schools, in the home and in private and public institutions; ... (c) Undertake awareness-raising programmes, including education campaigns, to change public attitudes and provide training and information on alternative forms of non-violent discipline, ensuring that they are consistent with the child's human dignity; (d) Train and raise the awareness of educators and other professionals working with and for children on positive behavioural management with a view to promoting safer and more protective schooling environments. F. Family environment and alternative care (arts. 5, 9-11, 18 (1) and (2), 20, 21, 25 and 27 (4))

		Children deprived of a family environment and alternative care 36. The Committee notes as positive the State party's efforts to promote family-type foster care for children deprived of a family environment. However, it continues to be concerned at the absence of safe houses or places of alternative care for boys who are in need of protection. 37. The Committee recommends that the State party: <ul style="list-style-type: none">(a) Support and facilitate family-based care for children wherever possible;(b) Ensure that financial support to foster parents sufficiently covers the costs of childcare;(c) Ensure that adequate human, technical and financial resources, including for medical, psychological and educational services, are allocated to alternative care centres and relevant child protection institutions, in order to facilitate the rehabilitation and social reintegration of children residing there;(d) Redouble efforts to establish an institution designed to accommodate boys in need of care, ensuring that their physical and psychological needs are appropriately met. Mental health 42. The Committee notes the measures taken by the State party to address mental health issues. However, it is concerned about the shortage of qualified child psychiatrists and community-based mental health services. 43. The Committee recommends that community-based mental health services be made readily available and that steps be taken to strengthen preventive work, particularly in the home environment and in care centres. It also recommends that the number of child psychiatrists and psychologists be increased. I. Special protection measures (arts. 22, 30, 32, 33, 35, 36, 37 (b)-(d) and 38-40) Asylum seekers and refugee children

		55. The Committee notes that the State party has established an ad hoc committee to deal with asylum. However it is concerned that the absence of legislation or of a specific regulation governing asylum procedures may leave refugee children vulnerable to trafficking for the purpose of sexual exploitation. 56. The Committee recommends that the State party accede to the 1961 Convention on the Reduction of Statelessness and establish referral mechanisms to ensure the proper identification and protection of victims of trafficking, especially unaccompanied children, and to provide victims of trafficking, including children, an effective opportunity to seek asylum. Administration of juvenile justice 57. The Committee welcomes the enactment of the Child Justice Act (2015), which came into effect on 1 November 2016. However, it is seriously concerned that: <ul style="list-style-type: none">(d) While the Child Justice Act (2015) aims to make detention a measure of last resort, children referred to residential centres will be held in the Boys Training School, which remains in need of significant transformation to bring its practices in line with the Convention and the United Nations Rules for the Protection of Juveniles Deprived of their Liberty (the Havana Rules);(e) There is no indication of any programmes designed for detained children. 58. With reference to its general comment No. 10 (2007) on children’s rights in juvenile justice, the Committee urges the State party to continue to develop its new child justice system so that it complies fully with the Convention and other relevant standards. In particular, the Committee urges the State party to: <ul style="list-style-type: none">(d) Review section 43 of the Child Justice Act (2015) with a view to allowing the application of alternatives to judicial proceedings to be applied to all children;(e) Step up efforts to transform the Boys Training School into an appropriate residential option for boys, ensuring that the arrest and detention of a child shall be in conformity with the law and shall be used only as a measure of last resort and for the shortest appropriate period of time and in accordance with the Rules and other relevant standards.
